

Documentation:

Hello user, welcome to your BMI calculator. When you arrive on our website, you have two different options. You have the possibility to login to your account, thanks to your email and password you choose. Or you can continue to the calculator, without logging in. The advantage of creating an account is that it will store all your data's, like your previous BMIs. Once you arrive on the calculator page, you just have to put your height and weight and then, let it work. It will automatically calculate your BMI. If you are member, so that you have created an account, you will be able to check your previous BMIs. All these data will be stored in a database: mysql.